DON'T MISS IT!

Mystery greeter!

There was much more hand-shaking before the July 23 meeting as the new "mystery greeter" was put into place for the first time. Last week's mystery greeter was Tim Jubie. Members are encourage to exchange greeting with as many fellow Rotarians, and guests, as possible during the pre-meeting social to avoid being called out and fined $1 by that day's designated plant. All proceeds will be donated to benefit Grace Place. Last week no one was "called out" as the honor system was used. We'll see what happens this week!

Last week's stand-ins

John Malmberg stood in as president last week. Scott Wagner is on vacation. Isaac took over as Sergeant at Arms.

Tom McCormick was the lucky winner of the dollar raffle. A gift certificate to Agave Kitchen, courtesy of John Malmberg, was this week's prize. In the "spirit of giving," Tom donated his prize to fellow-Rotarian Chuck Ladd. Chuck was feeling "down" because during trip to the grocery store, the young clerk couldn't figure out 10 percent of the bill without using a calculator!

July 23 program

Last week's program was August Hoffmann of Hudson who teaches psychology at Metro State University in the Twin Cities. He recently wrote a book titled "Philosophical Foundation of Evolutionary Psychology."

His contention is that people should be taught to be involved in their community – giving back. He brought several of his students with him to the meeting and told about their efforts to "give back" by planting gardens, maintaining the gardens and donating the food to food shelters. He said volunteerism promotes "pro-social" behavior.

"If you look at the 'anti-social' individuals who cause problems, they tend to be loners," Hoffmann said. "There is something to be said for working together and collaboration. There is a mind-body relationship." He also said volunteer opportunities are decreasing in many ways because of social media and people spending time online (and alone) – he called it an "environmental deficit disorder."

"Isolation is very damaging and leads to trouble," Hoffmann said.

We support international exchange students and programs. All members are encouraged to contribute to the Rotary Foundation and become Paul Harris Fellows. Above all, our members live Rotary's motto—Service Above Self.
